

International Congress of Dental Education
Guidelines for Abstracts and Full Text Articles of Oral Presentations

Abstracts and/or full text articles of oral presentations submitted to the congress will be subject to a review by the scientific committee prior to acceptance. All information and opinions in published abstracts / articles are the knowledge and opinions of the author (s).

Language

Abstracts should be in Turkish and English. Authors whose native language is not English should consider to obtain the assistance of an expert in English and scientific writing before submitting their abstracts.

Abstract Preparation

Title (should not be longer than 12 words), Abstract should be structured with Introduction, Material and Methods, Results, Conclusions and should not exceed 250 words.

Manuscript Preparation

Title (should not be longer than 12 words), Abstracts should be structured with Introduction, Material and Methods, Results, Conclusions and should not exceed 250 words. Full length manuscripts should be structured with Introduction, Material and Methods, Results, Conclusions, references and if present tables, figures and captions. Manuscripts should not exceed 2500 words and 30 references.

Paper dimensions should be A4 size. Please use normal, plain font (12-point Times New Roman), justified and number all pages consecutively.

Use italic characters when citing terms in Latin or species names (e.g. in vitro, Staphylococcus aureus).

Report units and abbreviations according to The International System of Units, (SI; <http://www.bipm.org/en/si/>), where appropriate. Examples to abbreviations for commonly used units are: year-yr, week-wk, day-d, hour-h, minute-min, second-s, gram-g, liter-L, microliter- μ L, meter-m, degrees Celsius- $^{\circ}$ C, etc.

Use a point (.) as the decimal mark and leave a space between the digits and the unit (e.g. 12.3 mm, 4.5 kg/cm², 37.2 $^{\circ}$ C). When writing percentage, do not put a space between the value and the percent sign (e.g. 0.2%).

The abbreviation followed by the spelled-out abbreviation in parenthesis must be used on first mention, unless the abbreviation is a standard unit of measurement, and the same abbreviation must be used throughout the text.

Specify the source of the material / equipment used in the study on first-mention (name, manufacturer, city, state -if applicable- and country, in parentheses). E.g. 'Root canals were filled with X-Fill-Canal (XXX-Dental, İstanbul, Turkey)'. No need to mention the source on subsequent references to the same product. When mentioning another product manufactured by the same company, it is sufficient to cite the company only. E.g. 'The access cavity was then filled with X-Fill-Cavity (XXX-Dental)'.

Writings should be sent in "doc" or "docx" format. The article should contain the following sections:

Title:

Concise (should not be longer than 12 words) and informative. Titles are often used in information-retrieval systems. Avoid abbreviations and formulae where possible.

Author names and affiliations.

Full names of the authors including academic degrees. The institutional affiliation of the authors (including city and country) must be given just below the names row, relating to a superscript number indicated after the surname. ORCID identifiers of all the authors should be included. You can get one or check yours at <https://orcid.org/>

Corresponding author:

Clearly indicate who will handle correspondence pre- and post-publication. Ensure that the e-mail address is given and that contact details (mailing address, full postal address office phone, and cell phone numbers) are kept up to date by the corresponding author.

Funding source:

Specify the grant number, protocol number, etc.

Ethical approval:

Provide the ethical review board information (full name, approval date, and number) here and in the text. Upload the digital copy of the approval document to the system during submission.

References:

References should be numbered in the order they are cited. Only published data or manuscripts accepted for publication and recent data should be included. All references must be easily retrievable from one of the standard databases (for example, PubMed, Google Scholar, or Science Direct). Inaccessible data sources and those not indexed in any database should be omitted. No references should be cited in the abstract. Each reference should be cited only once; on subsequent citations, the original number should be used.

Reference style should be set out in Vancouver style, superscripted in the text before punctuation marks, and numbered in the order in which they appear in the text.

Examples of citing in the text:

...was found in a previous study (3).

...was found in previous studies (3,5-7,12).

In a recent study by Laskin , ⁽⁹⁾ it was found that...

In a recent study by Akcalı & Lang, ⁽⁷⁾ it was found that...

In a recent study by Bozkaya et al., ⁽⁹⁾ it was found that...

All authors should be listed if an article has three or less authors; if an article has more than three authors, first three authors are listed and the rest is represented by "et al.". Reference format and punctuation should be as in the following examples.

Paper (three authors or fewer):

Akcalı A, Lang NP. Dental calculus: the calcified biofilm and its role in disease development. Periodontol 2000. 2018;76(1):109-115.

Paper (more than three authors):

Bozkaya S, Durmuşlar MC, Çakir M, et al. Use of alveolar distraction osteogenesis for implant placement: a case report with eight-year follow-up. Aust Dent J. 2016;61(2):252-256.

Epub Ahead of Print papers:

Zancan R F, Di Maio A, Tomson P L et al. The presence of smear layer affects the antimicrobial action of root canal sealers. Int Endod J. 2021 Mar 24. doi: 10.1111/iej.13522. [Epub ahead of print].

Chapter in a book:

Pollock AV. The historical evolution of clinical research. In: Troidl H, McKneally MF, Mulder DS, et al. eds. Surgical research. Basic principles and clinical practice. 3rd ed. Berlin: Springer, 1997:49-56.

Book:

Simons NE, Menzies B, Matthews M. A Short Course in Soil and Rock Slope Engineering. London: Thomas Telford Publishing; 2001.

Dissertation, thesis:

Kayaoğlu G. Investigation of infection and survival mechanisms held by Enterococcus faecalis (strain A197A): with respect to endodontic disease [thesis]. Ankara: Gazi University; 2007.

ISO standards:

International Standards Organization. Dentistry: root canal sealing materials. ISO6876. International Standards Organization, Geneva, Switzerland; 2001.

Tables / Graphs / Illustrations / Photographs

Tables and figures should be located at the end of the main document, after the References section. Images should be submitted in JPG or TIFF formats.

All figures (photographs, graphs, drawings, etc) and tables must be numbered consecutively with Arabic numerals according to the order they appear in the text.

Tables should not be a repetition of the main text, but should be supporting it. All tables must be thoroughly discussed in the text of the manuscript. Place any table notes below the table body.

Explanatory material including abbreviations, statistical information (statistical analysis method, p values, etc) must be given in footnotes placed under the table, not in the table heading. An asterisk or superscript letter may be used where appropriate.

The authors must not embed the figures into the text and should be saved as separate files. Color and black-and-white photographs should be created and saved at a minimum of 300 dots per inch (dpi).

Figure legends should begin with a brief title for the whole figure and continue with a short description of each panel and the symbols used; they should not contain any details of methods. Figure legends should be listed on a separate page and include key for symbols or abbreviations used in Figures.

In case the manuscript contains images of persons, written permission for their use must be obtained and submitted with the manuscript. Legal, financial and criminal liabilities in this regard belong to the author(s).

Copyright Transfer Agreement

The copyright transfer agreement form signed by corresponding author on behalf of ALL Authors must be added to submission files. Abstracts or full text articles of oral presentations will be published on our web site. Access to these materials will be free. Unless stated otherwise abstracts and full text articles are licensed. Attribution-NonCommercial-NoDerivs 3.0 Unported (CC BY-NC-ND 3.0). <https://creativecommons.org/licenses/by-nc-nd/3.0/deed.tr>